D. P. Conditions Appalling, Says Maquis Chaplain

Paris has become the refugee-center for Jews fleeing from Eastern Europe and infiltrating from the DP camps in the French Zone, it was reported by Captain Robert Monheit of the French Army, upon his arrival in New York for a brief visit. Captain Monheit is the only Jewish chaplain attached to the French Occupation Zone in Germany and Austria, and is the president of the Agudath Israel Youth Council of France.

In an interview at the offices of the Agudath Israel Youth Council of America, 112 West 42nd Street, New York, he described the conditions in the D.P. camps in the French Zone as "appalling", and deplored the fact that "insufficient attention and consideration" has been given this zone by UNRRA and Jewish organizations. He lauded the relief work of the Refugee-Immigration Division of the Agudath Israel, from whom he had received thousands of kosher food packages and relief supplies for the Jewish displaced persons residing in areas under French occupation.

Before the liberation of France, Captain Monheit was the Jewish chaplain of the Maquis, the French underground, and he was active in rescuing thousands of Jews from Nazi slavery. He stated that the Nazis murdered two French rabbis who were about to enter the underground, and deported nineteen rabbis, who were eventually exterminated.

He helped the underground save thousands of Jews, by smuggling into the concentration camps false documents underneath transports of religious articles, he related.

Captain Monheit was assigned by the French Ministry for Deportees [illegible] to arouse public opinion about the possibility of transferring huge amounts of Jews from Poland to France, and thus save them from "the terrors and ques-

Weizmann Urges Jewish-Arab Unity To Develop East

Unusual significance was attached to a speech made in Jerusalem by Dr. Chaim Weizmann, in which the president of the Jewish Agency for Palestine said, "the Jewish people today stretch out their hands in friendship and amity to the Arab peoples, offering to cooperate for the development of a prosperous and thriving Middle East."

Dr. Weizmann spoke at a reception given in his honor by the Municipal Council Petach Tikvah, north of Tel Aviv.

Recalling the statement of T. E. Lawrence (Lawrence of Arabia) about the contribution Jews could make in areas apart from Palestine toward the progress and development of the Arab world, and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's recent reiteration of this possibility, Dr. Weizmann declared:

"Many times already we have stretched out our hand of friendship, always to be rejected. I have always believed that the British people are the natural intermediaries between us and the Arabs, but they have not so far undertaken the task."

He said that Jews were ready to give their brains and scientific and cultural talents toward the consummation of this task, and added, "All we ask in return is the opportunity to develop in peace and tranquility, in amity and friendship with our neighbors of this little notch of land so that the Jewish people, agonized and tortured, may not only rebuild the land of their fathers but may also make their contribution to the peace and happiness of the whole Middle East."

The greater part of Dr. Weizmann's address was devoted to a reply to [illegible] the Jewish people.

"As one who has done and is doing his utmost to help maintain peace and good relations in this country, I must admit that his ref-

Lehman Says Palestine Only Chance

Palestine offers the only opportunity for a future to the remnant of the European Jews, former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman declared in New York at a luncheon he sponsored in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel for William Rosenwald, national chairman of the $100,000,000 campaign of the United Jewish Appeal.

"What I have seen and know of the horrible, hopeless plight of Jews in displaced persons' camps has made me realize that unless they are released soon there will be a great deterioration, morally and physically," the former director of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration said.

"I am convinced that whether we are Zionists or not, Palestine offers an opportunity which we must insist we use at this time."

Mr. Lehman pointed out that although the UJA drive has been successful so far, there is still a huge sum to be raised if "we are even remotely to approach the needs of stricken Jews overseas." He spoke, he reminded his guests, not as an amateur, but as one who had witnessed that need at close range. No matter how graphic the description of the plight, he added, it falls far short of actuality.

"These people are down—not out—but down to such an extent that it seems impossible to do more than scratch the surface in their relief," he asserted. "But scratching the surface is all they want. They're proud, courageous and self-confident."

While UNRRA is the only agency between millions and starvation, Mr. Lehman said, it is unable to assist the great mass of European Jews, who need [illegible]

"With the exception of those who can come here, the others want, and will go to Palestine," he said. "Palestine offers them much more than just an outstretched hand. It is the one place in the world where they know if

Says Force Can Not Settle Palestine Situation

The establishment of a self-governing bi-national Palestine, based on equality of Jews and Arabs, would resolve the present complicated situation there, Dr. Judah L. Magnes, president of the Hebrew University at Jerusalem, said in New York in an address over station WEAF of the National Broadcasting Company.

Dr. Magnes discussed five points in his talk. One was the entry of the 100,000 Jewish refugees into Palestine as recommended by the Anglo-American Committee. The others were the new "forward-looking" British foreign policy in the middle-east generally, the absence of a similar policy for Palestine, the imperative need of starting self-government there without delay and the need of Jewish-Arab cooperation in a bi-national Palestine.

The immigration of 100,000 Jews in Palestine, together with liberalising the land transfer act, Dr. Magnes said, will aid in bringing Britain's policy on Palestine into line with Britain's new and forward-looking policy in other parts of the Middle-East. "It is disappointing that Palestine alone seems to be an exception to this new, liberal policy, whose outlines are now beginning clearly to emerge," he said.

The interest of America in Palestine is helping Britain to find the way in that country, Dr. Magnes asserted. Without the United States, he said, the entry of 100,000 Jews in Palestine would hardly have been proposed, "nor will it be possible without America."

Palestine Outbreaks Indicate Growing Desperation

The tense situation in Palestine over the question of Jewish immigration flared into widespread violence, direct actionists of the Jewish underground forces having struck at British authority throughout the country.

Road and rail bridges, among them the Allenby Bridge over the Jordan, were blown up. Railway shops at Haifa, chief Palestinian port, were rocked by explosion. In Jerusalem two British officers were wounded by shots from a speeding automobile. In Tel Aviv five British officers were kidnapped from their club. Gun battles, ambushes and booby traps took a mounting toll of lives. British occupation forces clamped down a strict curfew and began a search for extremist leaders.

Behind the outbreaks was a growing feeling of desperation among Palestine's Jews (roughly 600,000, according to the British Information Service) over the recent course of events. A major cause of unrest was Britain's reaction to the recommendation on April 30 of the Anglo-American Commission of Inquiry that 100,000 of Europe's homeless Jews be allowed to enter the country. On June 12 Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said he was "not prepared" to send additional troops he thought would be necessary to maintain order among the Arabs if the proposed immigration were allowed.

Resistance sources named three objectives of last week's attacks. One was to show the British that they would need more troops to keep the immigrants out than they would to protect their entry. Another was to protest alleged British plans to liquidate the Hagana, or Jewish defense movement. The third was to demonstrate against the arrival in the Middle East of Haj Amin el Husseini, Mufti of Jerusalem and central figure in the Palestine Arabs' opposition to Zionist aims. (The Mufti, who fled from confinement in France, was granted refuge in Egypt last week by King Farouk.)

The development focused attention on the strength of the opposed forces in Palestine. The British have at least three divisions of troops in the country, their ranks stiffened by be-medaled war veterans but largely composed of young soldiers without combat experience, according to the New York Times. In addition there are some 5,000 British police and a number of naval units, the latter chiefly used to prevent the smuggling of immigrants.

The armed Jewish forces in Palestine consist of several groups. The "spearhead" of the Hagana is a group of 4,000 well armed, highly disciplined young men and women

James J. McDonald, member of the Anglo-American Palestine Committee of Inquiry, who recently returned to the United States from abroad, demanded that America and England take immediate action to transfer 100,000 Jews from European displaced persons camps to Palestine.

Addressing 750 delegates from more than 400 lodges at the fifty-ninth annual convention of the Independent Order Brith Abraham, at the Breakers Hotel, in Atlantic City, Mr. McDonald said:

"There has already been delay on this project, and further delay will cause serious repercussions in the camps themselves, which are being administered by the American Army of Occupation, and may lead to even more serious difficulties in Palestine."

He said that Arab opposition to the move is "impressive only to those who do not know the inherent weakness of the local Arab political leadership." Mr. McDonald is former president of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences.

Harold O. N. Frankel, of New York, grand master of the order, offered a nine-point program that included a "call upon the United Nations to establish Palestine as a national homeland for Jews; to establish an 'International Bill of Rights', and to enact an international law outlining anti-semitism."

There was a memorial prayer for the 6,000,000 Jews slain by Hitler, and a message from President Truman was read. The President called on the American people to "work together to alleviate the suffering of millions of homeless people in Europe."

"I note," the President said in part, "your organization's concern

FATHER WINS BATTLE AGAINST FLAMES!

DANIEL BROWN RECEIVES Dow Award

THE DOW AWARD is a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Victory Bond. Winners are selected by The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Montreal daily newspapers.

In his sleep, Daniel Brown of Hampstead, P.Q. stirred restlessly. Something made him cough a little . . . finally rousing him from his slumber. It was smoke! And from somewhere downstairs came the crackle of flames. His home was on fire!

Quickly, Daniel Brown led his wife out of the blazing house. Then back into the inferno he plunged . . . and grouping the two children he again led the way out. But one 4-year-old boy was somehow left behind. For a third time he rushed in . . . but, after pushing his little son to safety, Daniel Brown was stopped — pinned to the floor by a flaming ceiling beam. After a desperate struggle he crawled out, badly burned, to safety.

Daniel Brown's courage and devotion are worthy of great praise. We are proud to present him with The Dow Award.

● The American Consul in Warsaw, Poland, is again issuing visas for prospective American immigrants. For the time being, however, it is anticipated that only first degree relatives will be considered, these being husband, wife, sons and daughters. It is expected that the cases will progress slowly in the beginning. It cannot be predicted how soon ordinary quota cases will be given consideration. In view of this situation, the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society (HIAS) is now prepared to accept funds for transportation from Poland at the rate of $375 per head. It may take some time before the proposed immigrants are allowed to proceed. An additional difficulty is that there are no direct sailings from Poland as yet, and travel is via Sweden or France. Further information may be obtained in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg from the Jewish Immigrant Aid Society from which the above information was received.

● Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nosetz, 4305 Esplanade Avenue, donated $100 to the Jewish Labor Committee; $25 to the Council For Warsaw Jews, in honor of the barmitzvah of their son, Abram.

Many an over-expanded household has endured the "bathroom problem", but lack of ADEQUATE ELECTRIC WIRING is a more subtle irritation. Having to move the chesterfield to plug in the vacuum cleaner, for instance, just because the only wall outlet is back there . . . with all the lamps and the radio hooked up to it. And then there is the new range or water heater you would like to have if the main wiring would only stand the strain. That is where the real rub comes . . . when you can't use some new electrical convenience until new wiring is installed for it.

Many homes are not wired for modern demands. As more appliances become available, the use of electricity leaps right on climbing, and makeshift wiring adjustments lead to trouble.

That is why it is so necessary for you to insist on adequate wiring for your home, be it old or new. Hydro rates have been reduced until they are now among the lowest in the world. Enjoy full benefit of low-cost electrical servants by having your home adequately wired. A good electrical contractor knows how to wire adequately, and your local Hydro will gladly give you information.

If you are improving or building a home, ask your Hydro for the booklet, "Adequate Wiring for the Postwar Electric Homes of Canada."

Cream together: one-half cup shortening with one-half cup white sugar, and when the mixture is fluffy, cream in two egg yolks, one at a time. Add one and one-half cups flour sifted together with one teaspoon baking powder. Crumb the dough, and spread it over a greased twelve-by-eight-inch cake tin. For the filling: cook together one and one-quarter cups dates with three-quarters cup water and one teaspoon lemon juice. When the filling is soft, spread it over the crumbed mixture. Spread over that a meringue made of two egg-whites, beaten until stiff, with one cup of brown sugar beaten in. Sprinkle about one-quarter cup crushed nuts over the meringue, and bake in a medium oven, not more than 375 degrees, for about one-half hour, until it is golden-brown. When cold, cut in squares as needed.

MARRIAGES

BROWNSTEIN-LUPOVICH

The marriage of Natalie, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lupovich, Lajoie Avenue, to Harold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Brownstein, Wilderton Avenue, took place at the Mount Royal Hotel, on June 9, at half-past five o'clock, Rabbi S. Herschorn officiating, assisted by Rev. F. Schlepack. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a period gown of ivory-colored satin, fashioned with appliqued roses outlining the sweetheart neckline and front panel of the skirt; a tight-fitting bodice; and full, shirred skirt ending in a long train. Her veil of tulle illusion was caught to a pearl-embroidered coronet; and she carried a bouquet of spray orchids, stephanotis, and lilies-of-the-valley. Mrs. Gerald Brownstein, as matron of honor for her sister, wore an old-fashioned-styled gown of peach-colored lace; matching coronet and gloves; and carried a plume fan with Talisman roses. The centre aisle was decorated with tall arches, and candelabra covered with Picardy and white gladioli, as was the canopy. During the ceremony, Miss Herta Glaz, contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company, sang "Because" and "O, Promise Me". Gerald Brownstein was best man for his brother, and the ushers were: Jack Lupovich, Mortimer Brownstein, Jack Arnold Lupovich, and Melvin Mancher. Mrs. Lupovich, mother of the bride, wore a grey crepe and lace gown, grey tulle hat, and accessories of mauve-cerise-color; and carried orchids. Mrs. Brownstein, mother of the groom, wore a blue crepe gown, American Beauty-colored accessories, and carried deep red roses. Mrs. Abram Victor, grandmother of the bride, wore a black crepe gown; and had an orchid corsage. The bride and groom are spending their honeymoon in Banff and Lake Louise, Alta. The bride travelled in a three-piece ensemble of navy-blue and gold color, gold-colored hat; navy accessories; and a corsage of bronze-colored orchids. Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Abe Mancher and son, Melvin; Mrs. Sylvia Winkler and daughter, Regina; Mrs. Dora Hirsh, Harry Orenstein, and Mr. and Mrs. John Lane, all of New York; Mrs. Jessie Redmond and Mrs. Ray Carney, of Toronto, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rosenfeld, of New Haven, Conn.; Mrs. A. Calls Arab League Propaganda Set-Up

Existing facilities in Palestine could be quickly expanded to absorb 100,000 more Jews from Germany and Austria, Ira Hirschmann, of New York, who is touring Europe and Asia as special inspector general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, stated, adding that the threat of Arab armed opposition against such immigration was greatly exaggerated.

It is understood UNRRA would play an important part in the transportation and temporary maintenance of Jewish groups who may be transferred from Europe. Mr. Hirschmann, en route to Germany by way of Cairo and London, spent a few days in Palestine surveying the possibilities of the country's being able to absorb immediately such groups from displaced persons camps in the event Britain affirms the recommendation of the Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry for the entry of 100,000 immigrants.

"Anyone who assesses all the facts on the Palestine scene," he said, "can see at once that 100,000, who are now dying a second death physically and spiritually inside Germany, can rapidly be adjusted and integrated into Palestine's economy and rehabilitated into useful world citizens without displacing a single inhabitant here or causing economic harm. On the contrary, everything shows they will do this country a great deal of economic good."

"No one I have met underestimates these resettlement possibilities, or overestimates the alleged threat of a major Arab outburst, which obviously is magnified by a [illegible] build-up. What you get here and examine the [illegible] closely."

Mr. Hirschmann said that, although the Arabs might resort to some demonstrations, he was convinced no far-reaching, untoward repercussions would result from the British Government's carrying out the recommendation of the joint committee.

"This Arab League is mainly a propaganda set-up, with its members divided among themselves on every issue except permitting Jews to enter Palestine.

"After all, technically and legally these Arab States, now loudly trumpeting their truculent intentions, are members of the United Nations.

"In the confusion which their loudly-voiced threats and fist-shaking engenders, it is apt to be forgotten that any violence these States may be moved to perpetrate, whether directly by sending regular armies to Palestine or irregularly by financing guerrilla bands, would constitute that type of overt aggression that the Security Council has been formed to combat."

over problems of world security and human justice. During the war the enemies of security and justice were plain for all to see and it was easy to submerge our difference because of the great urgency of obliterating the threat of Nazism and Fascism.

"Today, their threat is removed. But justice and security do not follow automatically. We must renew the fight against the less tangible enemies; against prejudice, disunity, disregard for suffering, hungers and all the ills that beset a troubled world."

they enter legally they'll be welcomed by brass bands, where they know that people will fight and die for their right to come."

Since liberation the condition of displaced persons has improved, Mr. Warburg said, adding that as long as they must live in camps, forty to fifty to a room, their problems have in no way been solved.

Only the token of understanding sent to them by the American Jewish community, in the form of supplies and relief workers, through the Joint Distribution Committee, a UJA agency, have made it possible for the European Jews to "stand the disillusionment of liberation," Mr. Warburg said.

In tribute to Mr. Rosenwald, the luncheon guests pledged $359,000 to the appeal. Many of these contributions were made by those who had already donated large sums. Even Mr. Rosenwald himself was asked for an additional contribution by his sister, Mrs. David M. Levy, chairman of the national women's division.

[illegible] rence to the need for more divisions in Palestine is no aid to the maintenance of that stability and tranquility so desperately needed in these trying times," the Zionist leader declared.

"One wonders what the extra divisions are needed for. Palestine today is covered with British military camps. Surely, they are not here to protect Palestine Jewry. Then for what purpose?

"Like Mr. Bevin, I have no wish to see British soldiers fall in defense of the Jewish community and still less as victims of political violence. No reasonable member of Palestine Jewry wishes to see that happen. Yet, with all deference to speaker. The Committee's statement that nothing could be changed in the present political relations between the two peoples is putting the cart before the horse, he said, contending that on the contrary, the two peoples will show the will to work together, and that they do work together whenever the opportunities are created.

In pointing out that self-government in Palestine is the chief and most immediate need, Dr. Magnes said, "That will bring the two peoples together more than anything else. My friends and I have been proposing this for many years. We have worked out concrete proposals for setting up a bi-national Palestine based on equality between the two peoples. This would not be a Jewish State. It would not be an Arab State. It would be the State of Palestine, the bi-national country of two equal peoples."

Dr. Magnes warned that no time should be lost in beginning real self-government in Palestine and asserted that American help in this regard would be in accord with the tradition of American democracy. He envisaged the development of self-government in three stages. The first, while the mandate is still operative; the second, the transfer of Palestine to the trusteeship system of the United Nations as soon as possible, and the third, the eventual independence of the bi-national Palestine. This bi-national Palestine he added, should become an equal member of a wider Arab Union or of a Middle Eastern Federation. He also said that some arrangement should be made whereby the Jews would have representation within the United Nations.

The present complicated situation cannot be settled by force, he declared, repeating that it is possible to have the Jews and Arabs cooperate.

"The common interests of both peoples in all walks of life are numerous and can be developed," he asserted. "There is no basic racial antagonism. The Jews and Arabs are the sole descendants of the great Semitic peoples of antiquity. Together they can not only develop the Semitic East but they may be able once again to bring profound spiritual messages to a world now so deeply in need of spiritual refreshment and regeneration."

PALESTINE OUTBREAKS

"on active service." These are backed by about 14,000 reserves. Most of the members of this "striking force" are agricultural workers, tough, hardy and imbued with nationalistic fervor. Their railway or bridge demolition squads are small, often one-man crews, patterned after the hero Jordan in Hemingway's novel, "For Whom The Bell Tolls" — widely read in Hebrew translation. Behind this "combat" force — which was believed chiefly responsible for last week's disorders—are the reminder of the 90,000 Zionists of the Haganna who are capable of bearing arms.

Quite distinct from the Haganna are the groups called Irgun Zvai Leumi, or National Military Organization (numbering about 1,500 in all) and the Fighters for Freedom of Israel, popularly called the Sternists (with about 200 fully engaged). Both these groups are extremist and are considered as "outlaws" by Zionist officials.

In Britain the response to last week's events in Palestine was immediate. In Parliament there were demands for early clarification of the Government's policy, to which Prime Minister Clement Attlee replied that he was in close contact with Washington on the problem, but could make no statement "at the present time." The continuance of violence seemed likely to harden British determination to make the Jews lay down their arms before admitting new immigrants. The London News Chronicle said that "this country cannot tolerate a position where its armed forces are subject to kidnapping, bomb-throwing and every form of violent terrorism."
